ENGIE has no court cases on the matter, so that no amounts must be retained or booked as contingencies in its balance sheet, and therefore no amount shall be injected into the CCEE because of the upcoming agreement. This is due to the fact that, in 2015, ENGIE withdrew from the court case filed together with other generation players to meet the conditions precedent to renegotiate the hydrological risk of its plants with energy contracts in place on the regulated market.

ENGIE's executive board shall take the required steps to formalize its interest in adhering to the agreement under the terms and conditions provided in the aforementioned certification resolution, if in-house review shows that value is thereby created, as authorized by the Board of Directors on December 15, 2020, including securing the consent of partners in assets where its stake is held by means of a consortium.

The Company reiterates its commitment to keeping investors and the market at large duly appraised of the development of any matters of relevance to the market.
